The Golden Web

By ANTHONY PARTRIDGE

A year ago Anthony Partridge's engrossing mystery story, "Passers-By," was one of the six best sellers. "The Golden Web" is a story of the same type. It is moreover a vibrant love story. "The Golden Web" promises to be one of the first big successes of 1911.

With spirited illustrations by William Kirkpatrick.
12mo. Cloth. With picture wrapper in colors. $1.50

The Capture of Paul Beck

By McDONNELL BODKIN

The first detective novel of the new year. "The Capture of Paul Beck" will make a wider appeal than "The Quests of Paul Beck" for it is one continuous narrative and contains a love story.

With frontispiece by Charles Grunwald.

312 pages. 12mo. Cloth. $1.50

READY JANUARY 14

THE NEW OPPENHEIM NOVEL

Read what the best reviewers say of Jim Hands:

"A novel of uncommon interest."

"A book one welcomes with delight."

"Excellent for many a reason—for its wholesome warm-heartedness and flashes of insight."

"Jim Hands is a real man, sound and fine."

"Full of a quick sense of character and a ready humor."

"An artistic success approaching perfection."

"Has that peculiar faculty of causing first a chuckle, then a choke in the throat—a smile, and then a mist of tears, and all of them are worth while."

"A profitable book as well as a companionable one."

"Genuine, direct and lovably convincing."

"A thoroughly human book, of vital and abiding interest."

"Crowded with human documents unfolded with all the gifts of a born teller of stories."

THE GREAT DIAMOND PIPE

By
FLORENCE MORSE KINGSLEY

Author of

*"The Transfiguration of Miss Philura,"
"The Resurrection of Miss Cynthia," etc.*

A love story worked out under unique conditions. Barbara Preston, a beautiful and high-spirited American girl, after struggling for years to keep the New England farm upon which she was born, sees approaching a not unusual incident in the history of New England farms, namely, a foreclosure. The unique way in which Barbara raises the mortgage, and the delightful working out of the problems which are thus raised, makes this in many respects the best story Mrs. Kingsley has written.

THE TRAIL of NINETY-EIGHT

Here at last is the story of the great stampede of gold-seekers to Alaska. It is a story of incredible daring, greed, cruelty, suffering, fortitude—a drama of epic magnitude enacted among the snow-filled passes and frozen plains of the far north. Mr. Robert Service, author of the inimitable "Spell of the Yukon and Other Verses," who took part in the first rush for the gold fields of Alaska and who knows his country and has written about it as no other man has done, has put the story, for the first time, into a novel. "The Trail of Ninety-eight" is a big, human story, which passes from one stirring and dramatic scene to another until it culminates in a daring and intense climax.

EARLY SPRING FICTION

Published in January

MASTER AND MAID. By L. ALLEN HARKER, author of "Miss Esperance and Mr. Wycherly," etc. $1.25 net. Postage extra.

The love story of a true Irish girl, Lallie Clonmell, convincing in the charm attributed to her because her fascination for the reader is as strong as it is for the men, women and children who come to life for too short a time between the book's covers.

Published in February

ROBERT KIMBERLY. By FRANK H. SPEARMAN, author of "Whispering Smith," etc. $1.30 net. Postage extra.

A vivid picture of a social circle of unlimited wealth and corresponding activities in a great city; the leader is Robert Kimberly. He is also a dominant figure in the business world. The love story and Kimberly's struggle for control in business make up an absorbing story.

HER LITTLE YOUNG LADYSHIP. By MYRA KELLY. $1.25 net. Postage extra.

Deals with characters very different from those of "Little Aliens," etc., yet shows the same sympathetic grasp of human nature—the same pervasive humor. It is the story of a girl who has never left her native Connecticut town until an earl wins and takes her to his Irish estate.

Published in March

THE PATRICIANS. By JOHN GALSWORTHY, author of "Fraternity," "A Country House," "A Motley," and "Justice." $1.35 net. Postage extra.

A novel of aristocratic English life. The author shows all his sympathetic understanding of characters, grasp of social questions, and his power to make things and people real. It is a novel of pervading optimism.

CHILDREN OF TO-MORROW. By CLARA E. LAUGHLIN, author of "Felicity," etc. Illustrated in color. $1.30 net. Postage extra.

A story of the present day, and New York with an unusual and absorbing plot.

AN OLD MAID'S VENGEANCE. By FRANCES POWELL, author of "The House on the Hudson," etc. $1.25 net. Postage extra.

A charming story of love and mystery with the Riviera as a background.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY ALTUMUS COMPANY will publish February 1 "Eve's Second Husband," by Corra Harris, author of that very satisfactory story, "A Circuit Rider's Wife." The new story is the heart history of an American wife told by herself, the story of a good, clever, pure and practical woman. "A Circuit Rider's Wife" is now in its tenth thousand.

HENRY J. WOOD, the well-known composer and orchestral conductor of London, who has just been advanced to knighthood in the Premier's list of New Year honors, is the subject of Rosa Newmarch's intimate monograph published by John Lane Company, and included in the Living Masters of Music Series.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have planned six volumes of fiction to be published within the next three months. In January there will be "Master and Maid," by L. Allen Harker, the story of an Irish girl; in February will appear "Robert Kimberly," by Frank H. Spearman, the story of a social and financial leader; and "Her Little Ladyship," by Myra Kelly, a story of a Connecticut girl married by an Irish Earl. March will bring "The Patriarchs," by John Galsworthy; "Children of Tomorrow," by Clara E. Laughlin; and "An Old Maid's Vengeance," by Frances Powell, which tells a story of the Riviera.

ANY one who owns a garden, farm or a country place, or any one who hopes to, will find the "Garden and Farm Almanac" for 1911 most useful. It tells, among other things, how, when and where to plant and grow to the very best advantage all flowers, vegetables, crops, shrubs, trees and lawns, as well as how to fight all insect enemies, and includes many other features invaluable to people who have their homes in the country. It is crammed full of new and attractive ideas and suggestions, two brand new features being "Who's Who in Poultry" and "Who's Who in Dogs." Doubleday, Page & Company are the publishers of the book.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY will have ready next week a thrilling tale of the Klondike, "The Trail of Ninety-eight," by Robert W. Service, who tells of the great stampede of gold-seekers in a story of daring, greed, cruelty, suffering and fortitude, told by a writer who took part in that first mad rush to Alaska; "The Great Diamond Pipe," by John Buchan, is a stirring story of adventure, of wild night rides, of brave men and bad men, and an uprising of the blacks; and Florence Morse Kingsley's "To the Highest Bidder," a novel with a New England girl for heroine, who when she finds she is about to lose her ancestral farm offers her services for a term of years to the highest bidder at an auction.

THE question of war appropriations having just been looming large on the political horizon, there is peculiar timeliness in the immediate publication by A. C. McClurg & Co. of a book which in small compass deals with the whole question of militarism. "War or Peace: a Present Day Duty and a Future Hope," is written by General H. M. Chittenden, U. S. A., a graduate of West Point, 1884, who served as chief engineer of the Fourth Army Corps during the Spanish-American War, and who is already known to the public for his writings on the history of the West. General Chittenden presents the somewhat unusual spectacle of a soldier who does not let professional bias color his treatment of facts, and after carefully marshalling the arguments for and against war, and sizing up the world situation of the present day, he sums up in favor of the discontinuance of wars as a means of national adjustment.

Angell, Norman.

The great illusion; a study of the relation of military power in nations to their economic and social advantage. N. Y., Putnam, '10, [11.] (Ja7) c. '10. 16+315 p. D. $1.50 n.

The present volume is the outcome of a large pamphlet published in Europe at the end of 1909, entitled "Europe's optical illusion." The illusion which Mr. Angell seeks to dispel is that the wealth and prosperity of a nation, unless protected by strong armaments, are at the mercy of stronger nations. He sets out to prove that military and political power give a nation no commercial advantage, and to show that wealth in the economically civilized world is founded upon credit and commercial contract. Index.

Autobiography (The) of Brantley Yorka. Durham, N. C., Trinity Coll. Hist. Soc., [11.] (Ja7) '10. 138 p. 8°, (John Lowson monographs.) $1.

A little fiver's war diary; with 17 maps, 60 portraits and 246 other illustrations; with an introd. by N: Murray Butler. Syracuse, N. Y., C: W: Bardeen, '10, [11.] (Ja7) c. 329 p. O. cl., $3 net.

The author, now a well-known publisher of educational books, here reprints his war time diary of two years' service in the First Massachusetts Infantry. As the experience of a boy of fourteen through such battles as those of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and the Wilderness, the book is one of unique interest. He was present also in the draft riots, and had a typical experience with the Pension Bureau. Among the many illustrations are reproductions of some of Forbes' old war-time drawings for Frank Leslie's, as well as many from Harper's Weekly; other drawings by contemporary artists and portrait photographs.

Chapman, Abel, and Buck, Wa. J.

Unexplored Spain; with 209 il. by Jos. Crawhall, E. Caldwell and Abel Chapman, and from photographs. N. Y., Longmans, '10, [11.] (Ja7) 16+416 p. Q. $6 n.

Animal life in the little-known, rarely-travelled parts of Spain is, for the most part, treated of in this new work by the authors of "Wild Spain," which was published about twenty-five years ago. The land of the hidalgos has always been considered a "wild" country, so that few travellers have taken little trouble to go any considerable distance within its boundaries. For this reason, as the present writers point out, the Spanish fauna has become one of the richest and most varied in Europe. Both Mr. Chapman and Mr. Buck have spent many years in studying these wild regions and their inhabitants. They assure us that some forty years have been passed in constant exploration, practical experience in field and forest, combined with systematic note-taking and analysis in those parts of Spain which they present in this new work. The authors are recognized authorities in their chosen pursuits, which include every branch of sport with rod, gun, and rifle. They speak with authority also of modern zoological science and are able to throw much light on new phenomena.

dry goods, wool, cotton, and dressmakers' trades. Bost., Heath, '10, ['11.] (Ja7) c. '10. 12+221 p. il. O. $1.

The author begins his treatment by a discussion of the various woodfibers, the preliminary preparation of wools and remanufactured material, the spinning of worsted and woolen yarn, weaving, dyeing and finishing. This part of the book closes with a complete list of the various kinds of woolen and worsted fabrics. In the same way he treats the other textile materials,—cotton, silk, linen, lace, hemp, flax, and artificial materials. In conclusion there is a chapter on the testing of textiles. Mr. Dooley is principal of Lawrence Industrial School, Lawrence, Mass.

Duclos, Charles Pinot.

A collection from the great poets together with many quaint and more recent verses selected from the compiler's scrap-book. It has been his aim not only to include poems worthy on account of their literary value, but also those which on account of their "heart interest" or because of their association properly belong to the literature of the nation. There is a condensed biographical dictionary of authors represented and an index to titles.

Soares, Thdr. Gerald.

Heroes of Israel; a teacher's manual to be used in connection with The student's textbook. Chic., Univ. of Chic., [11.] (Ja7) c. '10. 29+240 p. D. (Constructive Bible studies; ed. by Ernest DeWitt Burton.) $1.

A course is intended for students of the sixth grade of the public school. This manual for teachers is to be used in connection with the pupil's textbook which contains the stories of the heroes arranged from the British revision. The manual indicates to the teacher how the students may be guided in their work. "Suggested literature" (2 p.).

Soulavie, Jean Louis.

Madame de Pompadour; from the notebook of Maréchale D.; tr. from the French by E. Jules Méras. N. Y., Sturgis & Walton, '10, [11.] (Ja7) c. 9+281 p. pors. D. (Court ser. of French memoirs.) $1.50 n.

These memoirs first appeared in 1802. They were presented to the public as if taken from the notebook of the Maréchale D. by Jean Louis Soulavie (1753-1813). The author inspired by all that the eighteenth century had written about the favorite, especially by the history of Madame de Pompadour published in London in 1759, has been borrowed from by all recent historians of the marquise. Though frankly hostile, these memoirs present, on the whole, a fair picture of their original, giving the details of her obscure origin, her power over Louis xv. and influence on affairs of state.

The Publishers' Weekly

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT

January 7, 1911

The editor is not responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers should send books promptly for weekly record and descriptive annotation, if possible in advance of publication. The Record of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE OLD YEAR—AND THE NEW.

Not in several years has a January opened with the American booktrade in such a sound and eminently healthy condition.

In the first place, an irrefutable if indirect index of publishing prosperity, the production of books has gone forward during the year past at a surprising rate. The total for 1910 will probably—our statistics are not yet complete—exceed thirteen thousand titles, an increase of over 20 per cent. over 1909, and a greater increase than THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has ever registered before, and the greatest percentage of increase since 1905. Whether or not, to borrow a figure of speech from agriculture, intensive publishing might not accrue even more to the financial advantage of the trade is a question. We may be indeed publishing too many books to gain the maximum results possible with any one book. Nevertheless, it is natural and proper to consider lavish book production a connotation of booktrade prosperity.

This prosperity has been too in a period of extreme caution and consequent comparative depression in almost every other line of business. Despite record crops in a number of staples and a total agricultural return that was itself a record, 1910 will go down in financial history as a year of retrogression, or at least extremely conservative advance. There were no crises; the business world has had itself well in hand, and enters upon the year strengthened, if anything, by its period of recuperation. But in the face of general business conditions the excellent showing of the booktrade becomes the more remarkable.

The record of trade bankruptcies for the year would seem at first glance to belie the above statement, for THE PUBLISHERS'

WEEKLY recorded 39 such in 1910, as against 3 for 1909, and 19 for 1908. The comparative figures are misleading, however, for the reason that during the past year a more careful and thorough record of booktrade failures has been made than was possible in the years previous, many minor booksellers being omitted in 1908-09. Also the amounts involved in 1910 were comparatively small, nearly all the failures being those of firms of slight importance in the trade. The only failures of any note were those of Ammon & Mackel, of New York City, and the Vaughn & Morrill Co., of Tacoma, while the list contains no book publishing house of rank except the Werner Company, a receiver for which was appointed at the very beginning of the year.

Of first importance, however, in the promotion of trade solidarity and the strengthening of the retail bookseller's financial position has been the agitation for net fiction and the cordial response of the publishers to that agitation. The annual meeting of the American Booksellers' Association, under whose auspices the net fiction movement was promoted, marked, in numbers, enthusiasm and work accomplished, an epoch in its history. The effect of the vigorous propaganda then initiated, as reflected by the increased amount of net fiction in the fall lists of the various publishing houses, was most encouraging. It is not difficult to prophesy that 1911 will see the practical disappearance of "regular" fiction. The benefit of this reform to the booktrade, publisher and retailer alike, may without exaggeration be considered inestimable.

Properly to wind up the year the pre-Christmas rush assumed quite unexpected proportions, and the impetus given then is now being carried over into 1911. That it may continue and gather added momentum during the new year is the earnest wish of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

THE business of this office, hitherto carried on personally by R. R. Bowker, has been incorporated as the R. R. Bowker Company, with R. R. Bowker as President and Treasurer, A. H. Leyoldt as Vice-President, Fremont Rider as Secretary, John A. Holden as Assistant Treasurer and Business Manager, and W. A. Stewart as Assistant Secretary, these also being the directors and sole stockholders—the purpose being to organize the office co-operatively in the interest of the permanent continuance of the business.

BOOKSELLING DURING THE CHRISTMAS RUSH.

[The manager of one of the most flourishing bookstores in the Middle West, who knows intimately what the storm and stress of the Christmas rush means, sends us this sketch of life in his store in December when things were "going some." We believe others will appreciate the picture here given and enjoy the touches common alike to all retailers of books in holiday times.—Ed. P. W.]

MANAGER (from his station in the rear of the store soliloquizing): Well! I wonder what will happen to-day. Goodness knows yesterday was bad enough. Surely the life of a bookseller is not to be envied this time of the year. Every old woman that can get out runs down town to purchase a book she read when a girl for her nephews and nieces to read, and is shocked most to death when she doesn't find it. Here comes one now—a case of telepathy.

OLD LADY (to manager): Have you a copy of "Darius Green and His Flying Machine"? The clerks do not seem to remember it. I read it in a magazine forty years ago. I've tried all the department stores.

MANAGER: Certainly, madame, we have it. But pardon me if I say you should try the bookseller first, where you are likely to get more intelligent service—ahem!

CLERK (to manager): There is a gentleman out in front in great tribulation of mind, because he cannot remember the title of a book his wife sent for. He says we must have it, and that his wife will give him fits if he doesn't bring it home, as she must get it off to California to-day.

MANAGER: What did he say it was like?

CLERK: Something like "Getting Square with the Creator."

MANAGER: That's easy. He wants a copy of "In Tune with the Infinite," by Trine. Use your brains a little and don't try to exhaust mine.

ANOTHER CLERK (to manager): We are all out of "Vagabond Journey Around the World" and "Molly Make-Believe."

MANAGER: What! Why didn't I take that Century man's advice and buy a hundred copies of them? They do hit it right sometimes. I made him come down to fifty copies for the same discount. Besides telling him to go and chase himself, and that we had more of his rubbish now than the ragman would buy at one time. Such a business! Well, telegraph for fifty more of each by express, and book all the orders you can, and tell the customers we will have plenty in two days.

ANOTHER CLERK (running up): We are almost out of "Routledge Rides Alone" and "The Rosary."

MANAGER: Well, what do you think of that! Two hundred and fifty of each on Monday and Friday all gone. Fifty other new novels on the table and very few of them selling. It's enough to drive Van Dyke's three wise men into the river Jordan. Chuck what you have left under the counter so customers won't see them, and telegraph for 250 more of each. We have got to have what people want. They are like a lot of sheep, and when they get started there is no stopping them.

CLERK: There are three travelling men out in front inquiring for the buyer.

MANAGER: What! Two weeks before Christmas, and more books than we can show now? Do the publishers want all our money?

CLERK: I don't know. They say they come with important tidings.

MANAGER: Well, tell them I'm back here if they want me.

(Enter the "Three Wise Men," one from Scribner, one from Houghton Mifflin and one from Appleton.)

THREE WISE MEN (in chorus): Good morning, Mr. Brown. We just dropped down from our aeroplane which left Chicago last night, and thought perhaps you would be pleased to look over our catalogue. McClurg gave me an order for—

MANAGER: Never mind about McClurg's car-load lots; get something new. Come around to-night after store closes and I'll skim them over. But I tell you right now we don't want a thing.

CLERK: Mr. Brown, a lady out in front says she ordered five of Scribner's Centenary Dickens and all she got was "Hard Times." She says it is for her husband and hates to give it, as he has hard times enough now.

MANAGER: Tell her to write to Scribner's for a check for lacerating her husband's feelings; it is no fault of ours.

ANOTHER CLERK: Mrs. Aikinside telephoned us to send her some books on approval—a dozen or so late novels, a few nervous books, Schofield and Worcester style, a proper book for a minister, and a few juveniles—but no fairy tales with the cow jump over the moon in. She says her four-year-old told her that was an impossible feat, and that queered her on them.

MANAGER: All right, send them up.

CLERK: Mr. B., there is a lady out there wanted me to ask you if you would donate something for St. John's Church Fair. A good many of our customers attend that church.

MANAGER: I suppose we've got to do it. Give her one of those Grosset & Dunlap's "Sowing Seeds in Danny," and don't let her see you take it off the 50-cent table. Church fairs is one of the schemes of the devil.

F. B. W.

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS AND THE "BRITANNICA."

The following note from the Cambridge correspondent of The Athenæum is relative to the new edition of the "Britannica." "Every one," he says, "is loud in expressions of disapproval of the action of the University Press Syndicate relative thereto. 'The Encyclopædia Britannica' the printing of the eleventh edition of which they have cleverly secured, is undoubtedly a good investment, and it is appearing in an improved and convenient form. That the university will make money by the transaction seems certain; but it is generally felt that, even in this commercial age, there are methods of advertisement which are beneath its dignity. Many are especially inclined to resent the fact that, at any rate in some advertisements, it has been implied that the 'Encyclopædia' is the production of the university, whereas the press have simply secured the printer's rights. Badly as we are said to want money, it is well to remember that after all Cambridge has a credit to maintain, and that certain up-to-date methods of booming books are scarcely in place here."

BEST SELLING BOOKS.

ACCORDING to the Bookman's lists, the six books (fiction) which sold best in the order of demand during November were:

DON'T MUTILATE THE COPY.

WHEN ordering half-tones or other plates from the engraver, printers should not write instructions on the face of the copy or on the back of an unmounted photograph. Sometimes these instructions will be written on the back of the photograph, with the result that what has been written has been embossed on the face and will appear in the half-tone plate unless carefully worked out by the engraver. If anything must be written on the face of line drawings, a blue pencil should be used, as markings in blue will not reproduce. Such a pencil will be found convenient to indicate color distribution and the like. Paintings or drawings should be packed in stiff boards before mailing or expressing, as they are otherwise liable to injury by handling. Corrugated board is not the best material for such purposes.—American Printer.

CUPPLES & LEON IN NEW QUARTERS.

CUPPLES & LEON are the latest addition to the list of publishers to be housed in the new Dodd, Mead & Company building at 30th Street and Fourth Avenue, New York City. Besides Dodd, Mead & Company themselves, F. A. Stokes & Co. and Longmans, Green & Co. are already in the same building.

Cupples & Leon have taken an entire floor, a spacious reception room facing the elevators, with a light and attractively fitted show room immediately adjoining. The bookkeeping and private offices run along the Fourth Avenue side of the building, the entire rear being taken up with the stock room.

Cupples & Leon announce at this time that they have taken over, for the United States, the sole selling rights for the "Dean's Patent Rag Books," perhaps the best known and largest line of rag books on the market. They will carry at all times a complete stock of these popular books for small children, and will take pleasure in furnishing catalogues and prices upon application.

This increase in their lines and the rapid growth of their regular business necessitated their removal to new and larger quarters. They will be pleased to welcome there all their old and new friends in the trade.

COMMUNICATIONS.

ARE "BOOKS WANTED" RARE BOOKS?

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

THE editor of the New York Times Saturday Review of Books in the current issue says: "Books that fetch a fancy price when procurable at all, or that have to be advertised for, can hardly be regarded as popular."

I have been reading THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for thirty years, and it seems to me that in most instances it is always the most popular books that are being advertised for. I have noticed an advertisement for a book in your journal where a new edition was issued later on, and that edition exhausted and the advertising still being done. If popularity does not exhaust an edition of a book, make it scarce, bring an advance in prices and cause inquiry for the book, what would?

OBITUARY NOTES.

LUTHER LATHROP MEYER, manager of the Pennsylvania R. R. Terminal Book Shop of Doubleday, Page & Company, died at his home in Brooklyn on Monday from pneumonia. He was born in New York City.

ELIZA HALDEMAN FIGYELMESSY, wife of the late Colonel Philip Figyelmessy, who was consul to British Guiana for nearly twenty years, and author of the juvenile "Two Boys in the Tropics" (published last September), died recently.

FREDERICK BONNER, formerly proprietor and editor of the New York Ledger, died Monday in New York City. Mr. Bonner was the son of Robert Bonner, founder of the New York Ledger. Shortly after his graduation from Princeton he became connected with his father's paper, and assumed full charge of it in 1887. Mr. Bonner retired from active business in 1901, when he sold the paper.

JOHN W. ROBE, for more than thirty years manager of the Albany News Company, a branch of the American News Company, died on Sunday of pneumonia in that city. He was born in Albany in 1847, and was a veteran of the Civil War. He conducted the business with such marked ability that it became one of the leading business houses of the city.

MISS JULIA ARABELLA EASTMAN, founder and for eighteen years associate principal of the Dana Hall School for Girls, a fitting school for Wellesley College, died at her home at Wellesley, Mass., Sunday, at the age at seventy-four years. Miss Eastman, besides being well known as an instructor, was the author of a number of children's books, including "Kitty Kent's Troubles," "Romneys of Ridgemont," "School Days of Beulah Romney," "Short Comings and Long Goings," "Striking for the Right" and "Young Peck."

LEWIS RANDOLPH HAMERSLY, editor and publisher, died suddenly at the home of his daughter in Annapolis, Md., last Saturday night. Mr. Hamersly was born at Washington, D. C., in 1849. He was educated in private schools of Washington, and married Miss Mary Palmer, of Portsmouth, Va. Mr. Hamersly entered the Volunteer Navy in 1862. He served through the war and was honorably discharged in 1866. He compiled and published the first edition of "Hamersly's Records of Living Officers of the United States Navy." He published "Hamersly's Naval Encyclopedia" in 1891, and later started the United Service Magazine. He was the controlling member of the publishing firm of L. R. Hamersly & Co., 1 West 34th Street, New York.

THE REV. DANIEL WORCESTER FAUNCE, D.D., father of President William H. P. Faunce of Brown University, died Tuesday at Providence on his eighty-second birthday. Dr. Faunce was born at Plymouth, Mass., in 1829. He was graduated at Amherst in the class of 1850 and studied theology at Newton. He was ordained in 1853, and the same year married Miss Mary Parkhurst Perry, of Bristol. He received the degree of doctor of divinity from Amherst in 1880. In 1891 he married Mrs. Mary E. Tucker, of Beverly, Mass. His ministerial career consisted of pastorates at Worcester, Malden, Lynn and Newton, Mass.; Concord, N. H.; Washington, D. C., and Pawtucket, R. I. Among his books are "Words and Works of Jesus," 1873; "Words and Acts of the Apostles," 1874; "The Christian in the World," 1875; "A Young Man's Difficulties with His Bible," 1877; "The Christian Experience," 1880; "The Resurrection in Nature and Revelation," 1887; "Hours with a Skeptic," 1889; "Prayer as a Theory and Fact," 1890; "Advent and Ascension," 1893; "Inspiration Considered as Trend," 1896; "Shall We Believe in a Divine Providence?" 1900.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

BROUGHTON L. BRANDENBURG, the magazine writer, who is under indictment for forgery in the second degree and who disappeared several months ago, surrendered himself Tuesday to Judge Swann in Part 1. of the Court of General Sessions, New York City. Brandenburg was committed to the Tombs in default of $2000-bail. It was last November that his case was called for trial, but when the time came Brandenburg failed to appear and forfeited his bond. He is charged with obtaining money on a worthless check, drawn on a New York publishing house.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART writes from Vienna, where she is spending the winter working on a new farce: "I find I am doing what every other traveller always does, neither more nor less: being short-changed generally and overcharged always, studying the manners and customs—in the cafes! thinking the Viennese women overrated as to looks, but the Austrian soldiers exceedingly smart; buying coal by the bucket and candles by the inch (my American prodigality in both regards places me in the plutocratic class); learning to do as much washing with a pint of water as at home would take a tubful; submitting same-facely to having my hand kissed and wondering if anybody noticed; and for hours poring over wretched London papers that would bore me to extinction anywhere else."

PERSONAL NOTES.

MISS MARY MCCLURE, daughter of S. S. McClure, was married Saturday last to Robert Lyons, of Joliet, Ill.

CURTIS W. COE, who has been representing the Dodge Publishing Company in Canada and the Middle West, has resigned, and becomes assistant to the president of the Moody Manual Company, of 33 Broadway, New York.

PERIODICAL NOTES.

MRS. IDA CLYDE CLARKE has made arrangements to begin the publication of the Children's National Daily early in 1911. This paper is to be published six days in the week and to give the news in simplified language. Murders and other crimes of a sensational nature will not be published. Until recently Mrs. Clarke was editor-in-chief of the Taylor-Trotwood Magazine. She will have four other women associated with her in the publication of the paper.

"A CLEARING house where women may learn what is being done by others." The first number of The American Club Woman has just appeared. The little magazine has a long list of associate editors—Mrs. William Cumming Story, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Clarence Burns and Mrs. William Grant Brown, all of New York City; Mrs. Thomas K. Noble, of Washington, chaplain general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Emilio Re, of Rome, Italy, official commissioner of juvenile courts. It will give special attention to questions regarding the living and working conditions of wage-earning women, but will help along many other movements—the cleaning up of cities, the establishing of juvenile courts—anything that makes for civic and human betterment. The editors hold that women's clubs are becoming more and more interested in civic matters. There are to be a good many articles and not very much editorial comment.

It is announced that control of Success Magazine has changed hands. It is published by a million dollar corporation, organized under the laws of Delaware. It was founded by Dr. Orison Swett Marden, who remains with it, and one of its principal stockholders was Samuel Merwin. Mr. Merwin, David G. Evans and B. N. Garrison, who were all connected with the publication, endeavored a year ago to buy out the interest of E. E. Higgins, who until recently was the president of the company. Mr. Higgins did not care to sell. As announced in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY some weeks ago, Mr. Merwin and his adherents planned to start a paper, the National Post, with Gifford Pinchot, formerly Chief Forester of the United States, and his brother, Amos Pinchot. It is the intention to make the National Post a militant publication. Mr. Merwin and his associates at the first of the year bought out Mr. Higgins, and are conducting the affairs of Success. Mr. Garrison is president, Mr. Merwin secretary and Mr. Evans returns to his old place as editor, while Dr. Marden will continue to contribute. The Messrs. Pinchot are still with the National Post.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE convention was signed Tuesday establishing a parcels post between Brazil and the United States.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. report the fourth impression of "The Corsican," which has been one of the best selling books in the biographical field this season.

A FINE old English gentleman furnishes a new test for distinguishing the genuine from the doubtful plays of Shakespeare. He says: "If you want to read it, it's Shakespeare; and if you don't, it isn't."

CRANE & COMPANY, Topeka, Kan., have just published "The Trip to the West Indies," by E. W. Howe, a book recording the happenings and the places visited by the author in the spring of 1910, when he made the voyage to the West Indies, Panama and Venezuela on the Hamburg-American ship, the "Moltke."

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY will publish on January 28 "One Way Out; a Middle-class New-Englander Emigrates to America," by William Carleton. The story tells how Carleton found a way out when at thirty-eight he lost his job with no special training to fall back on beyond his office routine, and how his wife, Ruth, proved a true helpmeet.

ONE of Henry Holt & Company's first publications for the new year is "The Stability of Truth—a Discussion of Reality as Related to Thought and Action," by President David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University. In this significant little volume he considers Reality as related to Science, The Conduct to Life, Monism, Illusion, Education and Tradition.

MRS. KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN's play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which is one of the successes of the season in New York, will move to London early next spring. Negotiations are pending with Sir Charles Wyndham for the use of his New Theatre or the Criterion. Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks will take over the entire company now at the Republic Theatre.

FROM the Alice Harriman Company we have received two books, "An Athabaskan Princess," by George Fenwick, with illustrations by Max W. Kollm, is a story in poetic form, telling of the struggle to wrench gold from the secret places of the North; and "Browning; Biographical Notes, Appreciations and Selections from His 'Fifty Men and Women,'" by Pauline Leavens, president of the New York Browning Society.

"POETICAL FAVORITES, YOURS AND MINE," edited by Warren Snyder, has come to us from Wessels & Bissell Company. It is a collection from the great poets, together with many quaint and more recent verses selected from the editor's scrap book. It has been the editor's aim to include not only poems worthy on account of their literary value, but also those which on account of their "heart interest" or because of their association properly belong to the literature of the nation. The publishers' aim has been to produce a book worthy of the subject, at a moderate price, suitable for the home library or as a gift at any season or occasion.

THE English Bookseller notes with pleasure that the demand for English books in Canada is very distinctly increasing. A well-known Canadian bookseller says that he now handles a large number of the best English books of biography, travel and the highest class of fiction—indeed, he sells, he says, more good books now than ever. Another Canadian bookseller in a large way of business states that some 75 per cent. of his sales are of standard works. He sells some 60,000 copies a year of Everyman's Library, and every year about 500 expensive sets of Thackeray, Stevenson, Balzac and Dickens. English books, indeed, adds the Bookseller, are now pushing American books to one side. Formerly American books formed some 90 per cent. of the Canadian's sales, now he sells some 50 per cent. of English books.

JESSE LYNCH WILLIAMS's discussion of the marriage problem in his new novel, "The Married Life of the Frederic Carrolls," has caught public attention to such an extent that its first edition was sold out within a week of publication—and this although it appeared under two handicaps: it was published after the retail trade was well stocked up for the Christmas season; and a great many people refused from the title to regard it as fiction at all. "Who was Frederic Carroll?" became a tiresome question to many book clerks. Yet the book has grown in favor because without exaggeration or morbidness or cynicism it deals with the most interesting "problem" of all the "problems"—that of marriage.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY have just concluded arrangements with the noted musical critic, W. J. Henderson, of the Sun, whose books on "Wagner," "Modern Musical Drift," and other subjects, are well known, to issue for him in February "Some Forerunners of Italian Opera," in which he discusses interestingly the roots of this form of music as we know it to-day, and traces it back even to the revival of the opera in Europe in the Middle Ages, showing that many pieces that have previously been regarded as plays were, in fact, rudimentary forms of lyric drama. The volume works up to the invention of opera in the last decade of the 16th century, in the successful achievements of Peri and Caccini.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY announce for publication in the early spring a memoir of the late John La Farge, with a study of his work, by Royal Cortissoz. Mr. Cortissoz, who is critic of art and literature of the New York Tribune, and the author of important books upon art matters, has an intimate knowledge of Mr. La Farge and his work, based on a friendship of some twenty years. The book, which was sanctioned by Mr. La Farge, will embody recollections communicated by him to the author in manuscript, together with numerous notes of conversations, anecdotes, etc., making it a personal portrait of unusual vividness and authenticity. It will be fully illustrated with reproductions of La Farge's work reproduced in photogravure.

PUTNAM's announce the publication of Norman Angell's brilliant book, "The Great Illusion." The author undertakes to demonstrate that the ramifications of the modern credit system, with its world-wide simultaneity of bank rate movement and reacting bourses, have made it impossible for one nation to benefit by the conquest of another; that, in other words, military force has become in the modern world economically and socially futile. This thesis upsets, of necessity, the old time axioms of statecraft. Nevertheless, Mr. Angell's book (in the earlier privately printed issue) was hailed with enthusiasm by the German Ambassador at the Court of St. James and by the British Foreign Secretary, and secured the cordial interest of the late King Edward VII. No piece of political thinking has in recent years more stirred the world which controls the movement of politics in Europe. The book is being published simultaneously in the United States, England, France, Germany, Denmark, Spain, Finland, Holland, Italy, Sweden and Japan.

CROSCUP's "Synchronic Chart of United States History," just published by the Windsor Publishing Company, New York City, certainly offers a distinctly original and interesting method of approaching historical study. The catchword which is inscribed across the top of the volume, "History made visible," expresses briefly the purport of the whole. The main feature of the book is an unfolding chart, upon which each historic event is set down in such a way that its relation to every other event, both in time and locality, can be seen at a glance. Each of our States has its separate place upon this chart, where its individual history is shown and its career can be traced back to the territory from which it has developed. Its connection with other States is made clear, as well as its part in the general history of the nation. Mr. Croscup has assuredly brought all American history clearly before the eye in a single view. The effectiveness of the scheme is much increased by the employment of lettering of different sizes and styles to emphasize the differing values of events. Color is also vividly employed, so that events and periods influenced by England show in red, Spanish ones in yellow, French in green, Dutch in orange, and so on. There are other ingenious charts in the book, showing the development and inter-relations of American political parties, the wave-like spread and shrinkage of our tariff, and so on. Figures are not merely itemized, they are diagrammed. The text of this book offers another novelty. Here again history is "made visible." Each chief event stands out in big and heavy type, obtruding itself across the page. Minor matters, necessary explanations, connecting passages are dressed in minor type. The scholarly character and mechanical accuracy of the book alike seem of high grade throughout.

PICK-UPS.

A RECENT piece of advertising matter gotten up by Baer's the Canton, Ohio, stationery and printing house, is in the form of an ordinary shipping tag. It is mailed out in the usual way except that nothing is attached to it. It is safe to say that everyone who receives it in his mail will take the trouble to look it over, thinking of course that it must have become detached from some package. On the back is printed the following:

HEREBY HANGS A TALE.

No, nothing was attached. Just, the tag—that's all.

AND THAT'S JUST WHAT'S THE TROUBLE.

Baer's have a hankering to send you something attached to a tag—Something for Your Office, or Some Good Printing, or what else you like—but, we can't think just what you need now—there must be something—what is it?

Books Wanted

Under this head booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, repeated matter, and all advertisements from nonsubscribers cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noticed.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withdrawing their use from irresponsible advertisers, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.
